

NEW YORK'S AIR MAIL TELEGRAPH

DAY AND NIGHT AIR MAIL IS ON SCHEDULE

Success of Service is Assured by Initial Trips of Ships

Movie Pictures in First Cargo of Mail

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, July 2.—Col. Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general, said today that included in the mail going to San Francisco is a package of moving picture film of news pictures taken in New York yesterday. They will be developed and shown on the screen at San Francisco theater less than two days after they were taken, he said. The postage amounted to $106.32.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, July 2.—On the final stretches of the maiden flight of the day and night coast air mail service, speeding airplanes today were nearing the Golden Gate and Long Island, with all conditions favorable to their arrival before scheduled time.

The 885-mile long lane of beacon light between Chicago and Cheyenne safely traversed, two roaring couriers at dawn were winging west across Wyoming, heading for the coast. The standard time, while it took less than two days after they were taken, he said. The postage amounted to $106.32.

Passed During Night
Between Omaha and North Platte, Nebraska, high in the air above the illuminated route the ships passed each other. Winds favored the east-bound traveler, who is due to complete the transcontinental trip in 32 hours and five minutes at 5:30 p. m. eastern standard time, while it took less than two days after they were taken, he said. The postage amounted to $106.32.

In the mail chamber of the east bound plane is a package of flowers from M. L. De Young of the San Francisco Chronicle, addressed to President Coolidge. The tribute is expected to reach the Chief Executive in slightly more than four hours.

Puts America Far Ahead
The accomplishment of flying mail in the darkness is declared by aeronautic experts and postal officials here directing the air mail service as putting America far ahead of other nations.

Earlier than scheduled time was made by the planes during the night. Pilots W. D. Williams and Art Smith, who brought the planes from Cleveland to Chicago, were relieved by Randolph Page and Dean Smith, who turned their cargoes over at Omaha to Jack Knight and H. T. Lewis. The latter pair were relieved at Cheyenne by Comdg. Capt. Frank J. Yager, who completed the hop through the night from Cheyenne to Omaha without incident. Pilot W. O. Hopson brought the cargo from Nebraska to Chicago.

Tremendous Lights
The lighting arrangement, with a total candle power of 5,275,000, which made a great white way of the night route functioned satisfactorily. At the main stations of the night service, Chicago, Iowa City, Omaha, North Platte and Cheyenne, powerful electric beacons flooded landing fields and between the main terminals, divisional fields and acetylene flashes every three miles apart guided the course of the air navigators.

Officials asserted all indications pointed to the success of the plan and declared service would be enlarged if the demand required.

Thomas A. Edison, writing one of the first air mail letters delivered here from the east last night, declared the service "inaugurates a new era of dispatch in written communications in which a flight of imagination as frictionless transportation delivers my letter in one-third the usual time by a splendidly speeded system of day and night flying."

Letters leaving San Francisco yesterday destined Chicago were delivered here before noon today.

SECOND TRIP STARTS
By Associated Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, July 2.—Harry W. Huking, air mail pilot, hopped off for the east at 5:48 a. m. today with the second consignment of mail to be forwarded via the new day and night aerial route. He carried nine pouches of mail.

HEADED INTO FOG
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Cheyenne, Wyo., July 2.—Heading into a fog that made visibility very poor and mountain flying perilous, Pilot H. A. Chandler of the Air Mail Service took off from Rock Springs, Wyo., at 5:31 mountain time this morning, in a ship carrying mail that left New York at 11 a. m. yesterday.

PUBLIC PURSE TO HEAVE SIGH OF RELIEF TONIGHT

Many Taxes to Be Removed, Others Cut, at Midnight.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, July 2.—The public purse will heave another sigh of relief at midnight tonight, when further cuts in the nation's tax bill under the new revenue law becomes effective after the 30-day period stipulated in its enactment. The so-called nuisance taxes are abolished entirely while in the field of miscellaneous taxes generally material reductions take effect.

Included among the old law assessments which are eliminated outright are those on telegraph and telephone messages and the stamp tax of two cents per hundred dollars on drafts, checks and promissory notes.

The tax on theater admissions of one cent for each ten cents charged is changed to apply only on admissions in excess of fifty cents.

The five percent tax on jewelry articles, including musical instruments so classified, will apply only on watches exceeding $30 in value and on watches of a value exceeding $50.

Automobile Taxes
Although the law levies a new tax of five percent on automobile chassis and bodies and motorcycles and three percent on truck or wagon chassis selling for more than $1,000 and bodies selling for more than $200, it compensates in a measure by cutting in half the five percent tax on automobile parts and accessories.

Another cut to become effective is that from two cents to one cent per hundred dollars in the stamp tax on sales of goods, boards of trade and similar trading marts.

Among articles freed entirely of the tax levied under the old law are: pleasure boats and canoes, hunting and boyie knives, dirk knives, daggers, sword canes, stilettoes, brass and metallic knucklers, smoking stands, liveries and livery boats and stands, hunting and shooting garments, riding habits, yachts and motor boats not designed for trade and X-ray films and plates.

Maughan on Next Jump.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Salt Lake City, Utah, July 2.—Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, U. S. A., left here at 8:45 for Cheyenne, Wyo., in the plane in which he recently flew from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast in one day. It was Maughan's plan to fly over Logan, Utah, north of here, his old home, and where it has been announced the residents are anxious to get a glimpse of their former townsman in the air.

WARNER TELLS OF DAMAGE IN STORM AREAS

Dixon Men Permitted to Walk About in Ruined Cities.

Attorney H. C. Warner and Louis Pitcher who are on their way to Boston to attend the annual Elks national convention, passed through the Lorain, Ohio, storm devastated district Monday, according to a letter received from the former this morning, which gives the following interesting facts:

"Early this (Tuesday) afternoon we reached the storm area and saw most of the district in Sandusky and Lorain, where the cyclone was the worst. The National Guard of Ohio are policing both cities and we had difficulty in getting through each of them, but Pitcher and I finally got through and walked for about two miles in both cities through tangled masses of wreckage, down trees torn to shreds and over a sea of debris. The streets are impassable for anything but pedestrians and the telephone, lighting and water systems are entirely out of commission.

Steel Beams Broken.

"Many large buildings were completely demolished and the huge steel beams were twisted and broken as if they were only paper. Several churches and some of the larger than the Methodist church in Dixon, are only piles of broken brick and stone and glass. We saw the pipe organs which had been torn to pieces and were lifted out of a house and left in the street. Automobiles were turned upside down, mattresses and bedding were blown into the air and lodged in what was left of the upper branches of great elm trees. Hundreds of houses are now only broken piles of kindling. A street car was overturned and crushed a horse and man. A large department store was blown in and all of the merchandise on each floor was swept clean and left in a heap at the further end of the building.

Cleveland Police Help.

"We saw several ambulances with Red Cross and Salvation Army workers and there are many injured in hospitals here and in Elmhurst. About 300 policemen from Cleveland are assisting at Lorain and Sandusky and the Boy Scouts are acting as policemen and traffic officers in Cleveland while the police officers in Cleveland are busy with the debris.

"You can get some idea of the extent of damage from the pictures I am sending but they do not show the pitiful sights of the many families who were working today trying to find their homes. One family had a school house, just outside of the storm district where many families are being cared for.

"The grain we saw in Ohio and Indiana looks well but the corn is not as good as in Lee county; in fact, it is hard to find a better place than Northern Illinois."

Arithmetic Revision Urged on Educators

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, July 2.—Discussion of committee reports occupied the second business session of the convention of the National Education Association here today.

Revision of the arithmetic curriculum was recommended in a report by the committee on mathematics, headed by G. M. Wilson, Boston University School of Education.

Social utility criteria should support the report declared in enumerating many "processes definitely proven to be useless," and which, it asserted, might with profit be omitted from school courses.

Classed among these were the derivation of cube roots and of the common divisor and least common multiple, the metric system and compound fractions and annual and compound interest.

Thomas E. Finigan, of the Education Department, Washington, D. C., advocated drastic regulation of the motion picture industry, presenting a resolution on films as an aid to education.

A resolution favoring establishment of the 18th of May, commemorating the opening of the first Hague conference as an international day of peace, was offered by Mrs. Fannie Fern, of Boston, in submitting a report on co-operation with the American School Citizenship League.

To Elect Y Board.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., held last week, some 14 names were nominated for the election which will take place Saturday, July 5 at the Y. M. C. A. building. The purpose of this election is to fill the vacancies of eight places on the board caused by the term of office of eight of the present members having expired. Every member of the Y. M. C. A. is being notified of this election and it is expected that a heavy vote will be polled as the election is a very important step in the life of the local association.

Repair Storm Damage.

Chicago, July 2.—Storm damage to electric properties in the wake of the tornado in central Illinois and Iowa Saturday has been repaired and service resumed, except in a few isolated cases, the Illinois Power & Light Corporation announced today. The damage was most severe at Des Moines, as well as Peoria and Galesburg, Illinois.

A special prayer meeting service will be held at the Baptist church this evening, which the pastor, L. D. Lankin urged every member to attend.

CITY MAY GO INTO GASOLINE BUSINESS SOON

Municipal Station is Under Consideration by Commissioners

Charging that tax payers and citizens of Dixon, owning and driving automobiles were being charged an exorbitant sum for gasoline and for the same brand of gasoline is sold for five cents less a gallon in Rockford than in Dixon, Commissioner Joe E. Valle at Tuesday evening's session of the city council, made a plea for a municipally-owned filling station. By this plan, the commissioner stated, high gasoline prices would be reduced to a fair scale and in keeping with other cities and at the same time the city would be realizing a revenue from this source.

ORDER IS BEING RESTORED TODAY IN LORAIN, OHIO

Rehabilitation to Be Under Direction of State Officials.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Lorain, O., July 2.—While this city continued today to dig itself out of the ruins wrought by Saturday's tornado, Gov. Vic Donahey and a committee, appointed by him to aid in bringing order out of chaos and to rehabilitate, was to survey the ruined district, comprising about 120 blocks and to devise means of rebuilding the city.

Order and systematic relief having been established, considerable progress is being made in cleaning up the wreckage. Practically all streets have been opened to traffic.

"Collect" Messages Get Delegate's Goat

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Madison Square Garden, New York, July 2.—Many of the candidate managers were working the "telegram from home" game on the delegates today.

The disappointed feature of the outcome was that a lot of telegrams came collect.

The dictates of the finest traditions of a hundred years of democratic history, in the battle with bandits Max Gardner, chairman of the North Carolina delegation, are that high strung home folks who send telegrams to their representatives in the nation should pay the charges.

THE AMERICAN FLAG—

When freedom from her mountain height.

Unfurled her standard to the air.

She tore the azure robe of night.

And set the stars of glory there.

She mingled with its gorgeous dyes

The milky baldrick of the skies.

And striped its pure, celestial white

With streakings of the morning light.

Then, from his mansion in the sun,

She called her eagle bearer down.

And gave into his mighty hand,

The symbol of her chosen land.

Majestic monarch of the cloud!

Who rear'st aloft the regal form.

To hear the tempest-trumpings loud.

And see the lightning-lances driven.

When strive the warriors of the storm.

And rolls the thunder-drum of heaven—

Child of the sun! to thee 'tis given

To guard the banner of the free.

To hover in the sulphur smoke,

To ward away the battle stroke.

And bid its blendings shine afar.

Like rainbows on the cloud of war.

The harbingers of victory!

Flag of the free heart's hope and home.

By angel hands to valor given;

Thy stars have lit the welkin dome.

And all thy hues were born in heaven.

Forever float that standard sheet!

Where breathes the foe but falls before us.

With Freedom's soil beneath our feet.

And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us?

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY.

CHERRY PUDDINGS.

Although you can't make these cherry puddings quite as "quick as a cat can wink its eye" you may like them even better than the famous cherry pie.

It seems to be impossible to make cherry puddings from canned fruit with the same deliciousness that is found in the fresh fruit.

These puddings are hearty and should be used as the main part of luncheon unless you happen to be planning meals for harvest hands. In th at event keep in mind that one of these puddings has more food value than a triangle of pie and serve the pudding after a scanty meat course.

Graham Cherry Pudding.

One egg, ¼ cup sugar, ½ cup mollasses, ½ cup white flour, 1½ cups graham flour, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup hot water, 1 teaspoon soda, two cups stoned cherries, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat egg well. Beat in sugar, butter and molasses, using egg beater.

Mix graham and white flour and stir into first mixture. Dissolve soda in hot water and beat into batter. Add cherries and mix thoroughly. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two hours. Serve with hard sauce, sugar and cream or lemon sauce.

Cherry Pudding.

One cup sugar, 2 cups flour, ¼ cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup stoned cherries, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar. Add yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour, salt, cream of tartar and soda.

Add whites of eggs beaten until stiff.

Put cherries in baking dish and sprinkle with two tablespoons sugar mixed with one tablespoon flour. Cover and bake.

Rice and Cherry Pudding.

Three cups milk, ¾ cup rice, two tablespoons butter, ½ cup sugar, one lemon, 2 eggs (yolks), 2 cups stoned cherries, 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup boiling water, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves.

Cook rice in the milk until almost done. Then add one-half cup sugar, butter and the yellow rind of the lemon. Sythesize the lemon before peeking. Add more milk if necessary and cook until rice is tender. Remove lemon peel and beat in the egg yolks.

Make a sirup of the one and one-half cup sugar. Add cherries, juice of lemon and spices and stew until cherries are tender and the sirup is clear.

Drain cherries from sirup and boil sirup until thick. Arrange rice in a mound in a deep dish, sprinkle with

G.A.R. Post Monday

Members of Dixon Post G. A. R.

were happily surprised Monday evening, the 41st anniversary of the founding the post, when they were tendered a picnic at Assembly Park of Mr. Richardson the hundred and more celebrants partook of their pic-

Water that is strongly impregnated with iron is apt to stain clothes that are washed in it. This may be coun-of washing soda for every gallon of water.

This makes an unusual dessert. Peel apples and scoop out the cores, then

ONE BUSINESS ASSET.

With credit and cash transactions frequently running in the proportion of 40 to 1 in banks, the value of credit as a business asset cannot well be overestimated. Credit is universally necessary to the business man. Without it his transactions are cramped and his opportunities limited. With it he is able to do more business and earn greater profits. It is no exaggeration to say that an established reputation for meeting all obligations promptly is as valuable to the man of business as good character is to a woman. Indeed, credit is a matter of character. In giving it the banks, which are institutions of credit, pay closest attention to the integrity of those to whom they extend their service. No man, however, abundant his resources, can afford to give room for suspicion that he is crooked, for it often happens that men of large resources most need credit in their transactions.

Young business men sometimes resent the searching questions put to them when they seek credit in bank. They should not feel that way. The bank is testing not only their resources, but their character. The truth, and nothing but the truth, is of highest importance at such a time. Perhaps the bank can stand a loss, but the business man asking credit cannot afford to be untruthful, evasive or shift in his dealings with a bank. If he has been unwise, a frank confession of error is best. Many times the telling of a painful humiliating truth to one's banker results in friendly advice worth much to the young man in trade.

Things fundamentally important in business and in credit are truthfulness, good habits, honesty, and frankness. Banks want customers, and are always pleased when they find a new patron who is thoroughly trustworthy.—Journal of Commerce.

GLANDS.

Animal glands cannot lengthen human life or restore youth to the aged, says the distinguished surgeon, Dr. Clarence A. McWilliams of New York.
That may be true of transplanting glands and surgery.
But remarkable results are obtained by feeding extracts of glands. For one thing, any a growth-stunted and mentally backward child can be made bright and normal physically and mentally by proper feeding of deep thyroid.
The "gland stuff" is 10 per cent vaudeville, 90 per cent a certain and accurate science.

DRINK.

We eat a lot of things in civilization without knowing it. For instance, the milk used by Americans averages 212 quarts a year for every man, woman and child. That's close to a pint and a half a day apiece. You probably don't know anyone who drinks that much. It is the consumers in the form of cheese, butter and mixed in soups and other prepared foods.
If you don't eat 10 quarts of ice cream this year, you're not getting your full share.

CANCER.

Cancer is increasing its death toll faster than any other of the dread diseases. This year 110,000 Americans will die of cancer, compared with 75,000 in 1914.
The medical profession indicates that cancer will be the next major disease to be conquered. Radium, X-ray, surgery and preventive measures already are working wonders. Definite isolation of the cancer germ and development of a curative serum apparently is just a matter of a few years. Several physicians already think they are close to this goal.

FLORIDA RUBBER.

Henry Ford is reported to have recently purchased 1000 acres of Florida land with the intention of setting it out to rubber trees. It will be the first attempt in continental United States to cultivate rubber, and if it succeeds the effect on the rubber situation will be revolutionary. At present practically all the rubber used in this country is of foreign origin, about 90 per cent of it being produced under British control. The automobile industry and other extensive users of rubber are completely at the mercy of the foreign monopoly, delivance from which will be accomplished if Mr. Ford's experiment is the success which is anticipated.

BARLEYCORN AT BAY.

International treaty is smoothing the way toward better enforcement of the liquor law. Conventions similar to that recently concluded between the United States and Great Britain have been ratified with Germany and Sweden, and it is understood that arrangements with other maritime nations along the same lines will soon be completed. The special dry navy provided by congress will soon be able to give its attention to all boats, without regard to nationality, found operating within one hour's steaming distance from shore and suspected of being liquor smugglers.

VANITY.

There is nothing new under the sun. And there is nothing more fundamental or ancient in history than human vanity.
In a copy of an old Boston newspaper of the year 1794, we find a ladies' wear shop advertising: "A constant supply of Perfumery, genuine Milk of Roses, Rouge, Violet and Orris, Powder, face do, ground Almonds, for preserving and cleansing the skin, Wash-Balls, Powder-Puffs, etc."

About the only difference was that the old-timers didn't "doll up" in the public."

TIP.

A big grain broker tells us: "There's a world shortage of wheat that's not realized, not withstanding statistics."
Some authorities are predicting $1.30 wheat by autumn.
This looks fine to a farmer. But if the shortage takes place in America, he'll have fewer bushels to sell.

"Why, that's a Christmas flower," cried Nancy

A queer flower was growing in the magic garden the next night when Johnny Jump Up and the Twins climbed down the rose vine. It was bright red with long narrow velvet petals and a yellow center. It looked very bright in the moonlight.
"Why, that's a Christmas flower," cried Nancy. "Mother gets a pot of them every Christmas."
"Yes, you're right," said the little fairy man. "It is a Christmas flower, but it has another name—a long queer name that I suppose you will forget the minute I tell you. But that doesn't matter. It is called po-in-set-tia."
"Does it grow up where Santa Claus lives," asked Nick.
"No," said Johnny Jump Up. "It grows in the south. Even further south than we have been on our travels. In fact, it grows in another country altogether, called Mexico." Just then Tommy Titmouse came hopping up. "Say," he said crossly, "is that where we're going tonight—to Mexico?"
"Yes, sir," said the little garden fairy. "That's where we're going, Tommy."
"Then for the land's sake," said Tommy, "why aren't we moving? That's some distance to travel before we can get our tickets. I can't take passengers without tickets."
"That's so," said Johnny Jump Up. "I'll have to find out if the Fairy Queen sent them."
The boys did and here they are," cried another little fairy, suddenly appearing on one of the red velvet blossoms. She was very beautiful, the new little fairy was, and she was dressed in a sort of Spanish dress. She had a high comb in her hair with a lace scarf over it.
"Oh, are you a Mexican fairy?" asked Nancy.
"Yes," nodded the tiny creature. "And I hope you will like Mexico." Before Nancy had time to answer Tommy Titmouse hopped up on a green stem beside her. "Just let me see the tickets," he said, "and I'll punch them with my bill. All aboard for Mexico!"
Away went the three of them, Nancy and Nick and Johnny Jump Up, on Tommy's brown back.
"Keep on going until you come to the Panama Canal, Tommy," said Johnny Jump Up. "Here we are. Stop on top of this mountain."
So Tommy stopped and they all looked down at the canal, which is a sort of river through the mountains. "A few years ago," said Johnny Jump Up, "the canal wasn't here. It was all mountains just like this mountain we are on. The Atlantic ocean was on one side and the Pacific ocean on the other side of these mountains."
"But some men thought they could fix it so the boats could go through. After digging hard for several years with thousands of men, they got enough of the mountain cut away so that the oceans could meet. And that is the Panama Canal."
Johnny talked so much, I'll have to tell you about the rest of the trip tomorrow.

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO LADY BETTY CARNOVAN

MY DEAR BETTY:
Sometimes I wish I had never come back, for, Betty dear, I'm not sure that I shall be a loved wife if I stay in America. Since Karl has come back to this country he's very different from what he was over there. I have found that since we came back and saw my sister, all his old emotions have welled up within him. And she is particularly nasty.
Betty, she's really grown prettier, and, although she is rather plump, it is becoming. She has also developed a strain of independence of her family which is particularly exasperating. I told her the other day in so many words that I wanted her to give me back the pearls. Karl was in the room, and what do you think he said? He said he would not allow me to take them.
Of course, two or three days later he gave me another, more gorgeous string than hers, yet it made me feel that there was something in the love that he had given to Leslie that he had not given to me. I don't want to be jealous of my own sister, but sometimes I cannot help it.
Now I must tell you the most thrilling and exciting part of the whole business. Leslie has never told her husband that those pearls are real or that Karl gave them to her through me. You know she found this out while we were in Europe through breaking them and having them reset. But back of all this there is some mystery which I am sure that Karl knows. I am going to get it and then, Mrs. Leslie Prescott had better look out! I do not think Karl should share a secret with my own sister which he will not tell to me, do you? Do you think, Betty, that a woman should keep any secrets after she marries him? Perhaps the time will come when shall feel it my duty to tell John Prescott all that I know, for I can tell you right now that I am not going to allow any one, even if she be my own sister, to come between me and my husband's love.
You don't know how queerly the women dress in America. Betty—much more splendidly for the street than they do in England. Leslie is wearing a tailor-made suit of silk alpaca, very beautiful, but oh, so expensive, in black and white. Every body is wearing black and white, you know, and I must say that if well combined it is universally becoming. Leslie looks very beautiful in it. Karl remarked upon it and I remarked that it really looked too expensive for a comparatively poor man's wife. Karl made no comment on that, but I am afraid he was annoyed.
Leslie went back to her own home last night. Dad wanted her to go home with us and I was afraid she was going to accept. For dad is not very well, but you know that Leslie will have the third anniversary of her wedding next week. She wants us all to come over for it, but I do not think dad will be able to go, and certainly I shall not. I feel as if I had enough of my sister to last me a long while. We do not worship the same gods, my dear.
She is all the time talking about some young woman who has opened a shop, and I never could associate with shopkeepers, you know.
I'm going to try to persuade Karl to return to England to live, or at least on the continent somewhere, right after we are married. It will be hard work, for he has such silly ideas on the subject of America and his home. I'll tell you what I think of both after I am married and have lived here a little longer; but I don't anticipate that I am going to like America enough to establish a home in it.
Lots of love to you and yours, my dear.
ALICE.

LENGLEN IS OUT

French Tennis Star is Forced to Quit Because of Illness.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Wimbledon, July 2.—The Wimbledon lawn tennis championships today entered the closing stages after a day of sensations including the withdrawal of Miss Suzanne Lenglen, five times woman champion of the world, because of illness and the defeat of Vincent Richards, brilliant young American internationalist, by Jean Borotra of France.

Playing at the top of her game, Miss Lenglen had advanced to the round before the semi-finals, brushing aside all opponents without dropping a single game until her last match, that with Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California, in which she suffered the loss of one set.

Her withdrawal caused a sensation and is regarded as improving the chances of Miss Helen Wills, the American champion, who now, if she defeats Miss Phyllis Satterthwaite today, will find facing her in the final round, Miss Kathleen McKane, the British star, instead of the formidable Lenglen.

Borotra's defeat of Richards was totally unexpected.

Has Enlarged Liver?
By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, July 2.—The Daily Express understands the Suzanne Lenglen's withdrawal from the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships is due to enlargement of the liver, a strain of playing.

"I am heartbroken about it," was the champion's comment to the paper's correspondent just after she had learned of the doctor's ruling that she should cease play. "I suppose I won't so well as I thought and the hard playing, Monday, was too much for my strength. It troubles me that I defeated Miss Ryan who now is unable to compete in the finals. If I had not defeated her, she had the best chance of winning."

PARIS.—Ephraim, French turf star, will race the pick of American horses at Belmont Park Aqueduct and in Kentucky this fall, it was announced.

Cleveland's mighty effort which plunged the American League into turmoil and sent Washington into the lead ahead of New York, Detroit and Boston, has finally lifted the Indians from last place to the first division.

Spoke's tribe vaulted from seventh to fourth yesterday, by winning two games from St. Louis by scores of 6-4, and 8-2 as Boston lost twice to the hustling Senators, 2-1 and 5-0 and Chicago was beaten by Detroit, 13-3.

The new alignment gives Washington a three-game lead over New York, which shut out Philadelphia, 7-0, aided by Ruth's 20th homer. The Yanks are in a virtual tie for second with Detroit. The Indians rest three games behind.

Chicago dropped to fifth, a half game behind the Indians. The Red Sox, recently leading the league, are in sixth place, only one point ahead of the Browns in seventh.

The Giants continued their merciless pummeling of Brooklyn with a six notch victory. Chicago retained its position, five and one-half games behind the leaders by beating the Reds, 4-3. Friberg counted for three of the runs, one of them a homer. Hornsby made his ninth homer of the season, and his second within two days in the Cardinal's 5-2 win over Pittsburgh.

The Phillies scored five runs in the first inning and defeated Boston, 9-6.

Cleveland's mighty effort which plunged the American League into turmoil and sent Washington into the lead ahead of New York, Detroit and Boston, has finally lifted the Indians from last place to the first division.

Spoke's tribe vaulted from seventh to fourth yesterday, by winning two games from St. Louis by scores of 6-4, and 8-2 as Boston lost twice to the hustling Senators, 2-1 and 5-0 and Chicago was beaten by Detroit, 13-3.

The new alignment gives Washington a three-game lead over New York, which shut out Philadelphia, 7-0, aided by Ruth's 20th homer. The Yanks are in a virtual tie for second with Detroit. The Indians rest three games behind.

Chicago dropped to fifth, a half game behind the Indians. The Red Sox, recently leading the league, are in sixth place, only one point ahead of the Browns in seventh.

The Giants continued their merciless pummeling of Brooklyn with a six notch victory. Chicago retained its position, five and one-half games behind the leaders by beating the Reds, 4-3. Friberg counted for three of the runs, one of them a homer. Hornsby made his ninth homer of the season, and his second within two days in the Cardinal's 5-2 win over Pittsburgh.

The Phillies scored five runs in the first inning and defeated Boston, 9-6.

Says "Radio" Made a Music Lover Out of Me

Radio does a lot of different things to different people.

Two or three years ago if you had told certain men of the writer's acquaintance that they could build a radio set they would have looked at you blank like and said: "Yes; maybe we should build an automobile or an airplane too."

But today they are building 'em and are making sets that give as good, if not better results than factory built sets. And, oh boy, you ought to hear 'em talk about inductance, resistance, capacity and amplification without distortion!

And another thing radio does: Some men who haven't been home evenings for so long that if they don't go out after dinner their wives think they have had a stroke of paralysis are now confirmed home-bounds. Try and get them away from the living room and its easy chair, the old briar and listening to Station PDQ—or from a corner in the kitchen where they are working out a new hook-up for their set.

But who would ever think of radio making a music lover out of a clod who before the advent of the new thought "Tales of Hoffman" was a detective story?

Yet such is the confession of a friend of the writer—and he unquestionably is typical of thousands of men—and women—in whom radio has cultivated a taste for good music. Let him tell his own story:

"I was at a friend's house on Long Island one evening, and heard him set," he said. "I didn't know much about radio, and nothing about music. In fact, music rather bored me, all except popular tunes and a little jazz now and then. But this was different. 'What is he playin'?' I asked. 'Dvorak's Humoresque,' was the reply.

"It was some swell piece, I'll tell the world—it was so soft and sweet and clear, a violin solo. 'I guess that when I got home and told my wife about enjoying a 'classical piece' she thought I must have had too much home brew, and maybe I got the name wrong and when I told her what the piece was. Anyhow she laughed when I told her what a swell selection 'Dvorak by Humoresque' was.

"I asked my friend about his set—a four tube Acme Reflex, he told me it was. This didn't mean anything in my young life. But when he said he'd help me build one like it I hopped to it good and fast. The next night we bought the parts and with some of them he got a booklet called 'Amplification Without Distortion.' He showed me how simple it was to build a set by following the plain, understandable directions in it, and we built the set together.

"Say, didn't that set work! WEAF, WJZ, WOR came over clear and sweet as a bell (he lived in New York). And ed up an entirely new and rich experience for me. I realize that 'great music' must be really 'great' and carry a universal message and appeal to interest a boob like me. But, after hearing many types of receiving sets, I also realize that the kind of a set you have makes a whole lot of difference. Volume alone in a set doesn't mean anything. It must also reproduce the solo or orchestra accurately to be really enjoyed. It may be ever so loud, but unless it is amplified without distortion it would not be worth anything. The quality and modulation must be perfect to please, and that is the kind of amplification everybody is going to demand sooner or later.

"Life has been 'holding out' on me by depriving me of the enjoyment of good music, but now that I've discovered this new resource of enjoyment and education—and the type of set on which to enjoy good music—me for it! Radio has made a music lover out of me."

GAS MANUFACTURE

By W. B. Davidson

In this book the subject of Gas Engineering and Gas Supply are dealt with in one volume, very fully from the chemical standpoint, less so from the engineering point of view. The treatise is intended to provide the foundations of a sound knowledge of the manufacture and distribution of town gas. It should meet the demand of the gas engineer for a more intimate acquaintance with the chemistry and physical chemistry of gases than he may already possess, and it will, it is hoped, supply the young student of gas engineering with a useful and comprehensive text-book.

THOUGHT OCEAN TRIP WOULD RESTORE HEALTH

"It was Tanlac that got me back on health's highway and the going is so good that it gives me real pleasure to praise Tanlac." This statement was made recently by Ralph Redden, proprietor of the Radio Garter & Suspender Co., 236 19th St., East Moline, Ill.

"This spring I felt so run-down that I was planning an ocean trip with the hope of bringing back my lost energy. But luckily I avoided this heavy expense and loss of time by taking Tanlac. This medicine accomplished the very thing I was seeking and supplied me with a 100 per cent good health.

"Before taking Tanlac meal time had little attraction for me and I was troubled with stomach disorders. But when the call to meals comes now I am eager to go, for I have an unfailing appetite and perfect digestion. In fact, Tanlac has put me in top-notch fettle and I think it great."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

LEGERDEMAIN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, whose war wounds left him unfit for manual labor, pawns an ivory miniature of his mother in order to pay his landlady and to buy food. A prosperous-looking bootlegger and all-round crook, takes Ainsley to his home and attempts to enlist him as an accomplice. Insulted, Ainsley leaves the room.

Ainsley is disgusted at the sight of a pretty young girl in the company of a gross-looking man in a restaurant. Later he sees the prosperous-looking crook join the man and the girl at their table. Ainsley finally recognizes the gross man as Daragon, a famous jeweler and rouse. Daragon draws out a little cardboard box and hands it to the girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

I saw my acquaintance reach for the box; though I could not see his face, I knew that his eyes were shining with ill-suppressed desire. And then, as I saw his right hand drop into the pocket of his coat, I knew what he planned to do, even before I caught a glimpse of the white object that he drew from the pocket. He planned to substitute one box for the other.

I smiled with amusement. Also I appreciated his cunning. Unquestionably he had made purchases from Daragon. Probably he had let the jeweler understand that the purchases were gifts for his sweetheart.

Then he had permitted Daragon to meet his lady. The lady had smiled upon the jeweler. Daragon had seen an opportunity to combine business with pleasure, the sort of pleasure that appealed to him. And it was not unusual that, in trying to close a bargain, he should bring a jewel from his store. And the girl had been waiting for him alone; her seductions were to lure Daragon's suspicions, if any might be aroused.

I saw my friend's head shake in negation. Argument, presumably over the price of the trinket, seemed to arise. The girl pleaded with her lover. Oh, it was all well staged.

THEN, decisively, my crook shook his head. He pushed the box across the table, as though the incident were closed. Daragon argued a few minutes, seemed to make concessions which were not accepted, then slowly wrapped up the box and tied the string around it. He placed it in his waistcoat pocket. I wondered how they planned to get it away from him, to substitute the box which, underneath the table, the crook held in his right hand.

Then I saw my friend the crook turn in his seat and pointed toward the door. Daragon looked in that direction. The girl's hand shot out; deftly it fished from his pocket the box which he had just placed there. No one but myself was placed so that the action could have been seen. I waited for the next move, which must be the substitution of the other box.

But although the crook handed the girl the box, Daragon's attention was not held by the incident near the door, which was nothing more than an altercation between two guests of the restaurant, an altercation arranged, I suspected, for the sole purpose of affording time and opportunity for the robbery of the jeweler.

He began to argue with the crook. Then I saw my friend the crook pocket, to produce the jewel. But the girl had not had time to effect the substitution. She went dead white as Daragon leaped to his feet, overturning his chair as he did so. For his suspicions, never more than slumbering, I imagined, awoke to full activity.

I NODDED FAREWELL TO HIM.

frantically: "The first one, the first one."

I slipped the second box swiftly into my pocket, arose and handed Daragon the first one. He took it from me, and immediately untied and opened it.

"Much obliged," he said. "For a minute I thought—damn it, I didn't think I know that I put that box in my pocket, and it couldn't have fallen out."

"I picked it from the floor," I reminded him.

"It didn't fall there," insisted the jeweler.

"Then how did it get there?" demanded the crook.

"I don't know," said Daragon. "If I did, I'd call the police."

"What do you mean?" demanded the crook.

"I don't mean anything; I don't have to mean anything, do I? But that box didn't walk out of my pocket," snarled the jeweler.

"Are you insinuating—" began the crook.

Daragon interrupted him. "When a fifty-thousand-dollar diamond ring leaves my pocket, I can insinuate all I damn please. If you don't like it, lump it. I was a fool to bring it down here anyway. My store is the place for me to do business."

"Better be careful," warned the crook.

"Don't worry about me. You said you'd give me forty thousand; you said you'd bring the cash here. I said I wanted fifty."

"Well, what about it?" demanded my host of the earlier evening.

"This much about it," cried Daragon. "I get suspicious, and you get sore. Well, if I'm wrong, I'll apologize. Produce forty thousand in cash, and I'll give you the ring. You'll prove your good faith, and I'll prove my regret." He waited a minute. I thought, considering the vast amount of cash that the other man had shown me earlier in the evening, that he might be able to produce forty thousand. But if he could, he evidently did not choose to do so. "I guess that will hold you," sneered Daragon. "If I didn't hate scandal, I'd call the police."

HE turned on his heel, gave me a grudging nod of thanks, and walked out of the restaurant. I stood a moment smiling at the crook.

"You certainly do need me," I laughed. Then, though having recognized me, he would have detained me, I walked over to my table. What did I, who was about to die, have in common with such a person? The thanks of himself, or of his pretty feminine companion, would not do me any good.

I paid my waiter and walked to the check-room. I will confess that I was slightly embarrassed at my inability to tip the doat-boy. But I need not have been; for Daragon, just donning his overcoat, saw me and seemed to regret his lack of courtesy. He handed the coat-boy an extra coin.

"Let me do that much," he said. "—even though you did me a shabby turn."

I stared at him. "What do you mean?" I asked.

"And where was that?" I asked. He grinned. "She's stuck on him. But I figured that if I caught them with the goods, she'd forget how stuck she was on him if I didn't prosecute. Get me?"

"I do," said I coldly.

"I suppose she dropped it, and you saw it fall. If you hadn't stepped in, I'd have had them dead to rights. Oh, well, a man can't get everything he thinks he wants."

A SENSE of the monstrous injustice of life came to me. That injustice could be remedied by money. For instance, that jewel in Daragon's pocket could be turned into thousands of dollars. Even I, a gentleman, had heard, in recent months of poverty, of "fences," those men who buy the loot of thieves; I even knew where one or two of them resided. The skirts of poverty brush the feet of criminality.

I was about to die, because I had neither productive nor constructive brains. But perhaps I had the third kind, a destructive brain. If my fur-collared friend could make a success of crime, despite the paucity of imagination which his clumsy scheme for robbing Daragon had disclosed, what a tremendous success I could achieve!

Honor? Adherence to it led me to the gutter, was about to lead me to the river!

Daragon stepped aside to let me precede him through the restaurant door. I exercised the only talent that I had, night-of-hand. I substituted the second box, for the one that lay in Daragon's pocket.

I nodded farewell to him—to more than him; to all the beast that lay behind me. And I kissed my hand to the future. I was nothing within the law; I would be the greatest living figure outside the law. I would make the supercriminal something more than the figment of a policeman's imagination. I would bring to my new profession the brain of a gentleman, certainly fitted to cope with the intellect of a detective. I would bring to my new art the culture of an aristocrat. I would raise it from the sordid level to which such people as my fur-collared friend repressed it. I smiled cheerfully as I set out to dispose of the diamond ring gained by my legerdemain.

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

White On The Wane

Unlike a woman's handkerchief, which is haloed with an aureole of romance, a man's handkerchief is a prosy and practical affair. Yet, is it quite? Time was, and not so long ago, when about the only spot of color vouchsafed to a man lay in his scarf. Today, he is turned out in vivid colors, from gay-hued hat-band to check-erboard hose. Indeed, for the sports the kit of the man of fashion rivals any woman's in boldness and brilliancy as witness his Fair Isle sweater introduced by the Prince of Wales. This is so splashily decorated that it looks like a Sierra Nevada sunset and a highland Tartan kilt rolled into one.

Except for downright utility, the all-white handkerchief is now principally carried by older men. Delicate pastel tints seem to be preferred by youngsters. However, turn a boy loose in a pastry shop and he soon sickens of sweets. Likewise, riotously colored handkerchiefs, save for sporting use, are yielding to the vogue of simpler colors and patterns of the sort reproduced here. These, of linen, silk or silk-and-linen, have faintly tinted grounds overlaid with diamonds, spots, stripes, checks and figures in contrasting effects. Among the newest handkerchiefs are shepherds' checks to match scarfs, as well as light grounds showing polka dots and Persian and Paisley borders. The 20-inch handkerchief is the present favorite of many men.

It is an inviolable rule of good form that only the white handkerchief shall be carried with evening dress. This, however, need not always be of linen, as white silk, according to the notion of some well-dressed men, is lighter and takes up less room in the breast

185 DETOURS ON STATE HIGHWAYS ARE NOW MARKED

Many Gaps Being Closed in State's Hard Road System.

Hordes of men, tractors, teams, road-building machinery, engineers and inspectors are at work on the thousand miles of hard roads to be built in Illinois this year.

A new and very complete progress map issued by the State Highway Department, as of May 1, shows roads finished and indicate also, the stage of completion of every project in the state as well as detours. According to figures just compiled by the highway department of the Chicago Motor club there are now established 185 detours in Illinois—that is, detours covering state building projects and not including detours established for town or county building work. The number of detours approximates the number of projects of road building, contracts for paving of which have been awarded.

In a few instances, detours have been established to get around grading work, but as a rule detours cover only places where paving is in progress.

The detour system as now established by the State Highway authorities is most complete. If there happens to be a detour, for instance, on State Route No. 5, the detour is marked in both directions "Temporary Detour—No. 5" so that when a motorist leaves No. 5 and traverses the detour by following the signs he will be brought back to No. 5, thus eliminating any chance of his missing the main highway.

The state paving program for 1924 means more than building an additional 1,000 miles of roads, because the projects are so laid out that hundreds of gaps will have been filled in, thus making available several thousand miles of hard roads that have been interspersed with unfinished spots and bad detours.

gestion and exercise a wholesome influence over the power to resist diseases in general. Now is the time to keep the body well supplied with vitamins since vegetables and fruits are plentiful and cheap.

Canned vegetables and fruits are practically as wholesome and valuable as fresh products of this nature if the canning is done correctly. It is well to remember, that only perfectly sound, fresh, sweet material should be used in any canning process. Commercially canned products are almost always wholesome.

Adding preservatives for the purpose of permitting cooking at a lower temperature in order to retain the natural color of the fruit is not a good practice in canning. This may be a harmless procedure but it certainly adds nothing to the keeping quality. It may be dangerous and the preservative is surely an adulterant.

Eating to live or living to eat—no matter which you philosophy—you will get the greatest benefit out of the process if your diet is well balanced as to give you the right proportions of calories, proteins, minerals and vitamins. Your diet is probably well balanced if you eat a dozen different foods daily.

Some folks believe in spraying fruit trees, applying certain fertilizers in well balanced proportions to garden vegetables, vaccinating hogs, regulating the quantity and quality of dairy and poultry food, and allowing the children to "just grow up." If better and surer desirable results can be obtained through the application of scientific knowledge to agriculture and stock raising, surely the same principles applied to human beings will tend to more, certainly produce, a healthier, fitter, more self-sustaining stock of men and women, says the state health commissioner.

Eating is mighty important to health but it isn't the whole thing. Gasoline makes your engine go but it has to have oil and water too if it keeps in condition. Exercise is the lubricating system of the body. If you want to keep the joints from squeaking you have to indulge in a bit of muscular effort every day. Out of door exercise such as baseball, tennis and golf are the best forms.

Pitching horseshoes with the neighbors, playing or watching a baseball game, an afternoon of fishing with some congenial companion or a tramp through the woods will do the average fellow who just feels "run down" a lot more good than 10 quarts of bottled "spring tonic," says the state health department.

A flash of forethought during the wild-oats season is worth a life time of regret. This truism would be testified to by some 30,000 people in Illinois who were reported by physicians to have suffered from venereal diseases last year. Besides this there were 5000 stillbirths reported in the state last year and, according to good authority, a large percentage of these resulted from syphilis.

The youngster who flirts with vice is very likely to dwell with disease. Contrary to a certain popular opinion, it is a good deal worse than a cold.

Big Premiums Offered for Schools' Exhibits

Urbana, Ill.—Premiums totalling $4,000 this year are being offered by the Illinois state fair in its junior department for club and school exhibits. W. H. Smith, superintendent of the department and state leader of farm advisers at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, this morning told the state's vocational agriculture teachers at their annual three-day conference which closes this afternoon. He urged that members of boys' and girls' clubs as well as students in vocational agriculture make a special effort to attend the fair this year.

"Approximately 1,000 different exhibits from the various county clubs and schools in the state last year were displayed in the state fair's junior department," Mr. Smith said. "This department aims to give all the boys and girls of junior age a chance to show the products which they have produced on the farm and to demonstrate their skill in the various activities of the farm. To this end, classes are provided in which juniors may exhibit live stock and other farm and home products, while provision also has been made for team demonstration work."

A feature of this year's exhibits will be the county displays representing the junior club work of the various counties.

"As a special attraction to boys and girls, the state fair provides a free camping ground where children making exhibits can enjoy a week of camping at the same time attend the fair, Mr. Smith said. Last year nearly 200 boys and girls took advantage of the camp and were able to pay all their expenses at the fair with their winnings on exhibits and by taking part in the demonstration team contests."

Eighty thousand carrier pigeons were used by Great Britain during the war. Materials used in the manufacture of buttons come from all parts of the world.
